A message from the editor :

As we, the Class of 1979, leave Central Bucks West and enter a new decade as young adults, hopefully we can look back on high school as a valuable experience holding many pleasant memories of learning and good times with our friends. With our future so close at hand, it is difficult to imagine that the present will some day be remembered as the "good old days," but sooner or later, we will all get the urge to dust off the past and reminisce. For this reason, the editors have chosen "Impressions of West" as the theme of the 1979 Antler. We hope to have conveyed through this book what being a part of West is like. Students and teachers were given the opportunity to respond with a message or quote which they felt would make themselves memorable. The seniors were asked to provide information about themselves so that everyone could have a paragraph beside his name regardless of the number of activities in which he had participated. Hopefully, as you page through this book in the future, the quotes and pictures it contains will help you recall your impressions of West and of the year 1979.

Sincerely,
Lynn High

Dear Seniors:

It has been said that the best education is what's left over after you have forgotten everything you have learned in school. Sound strange? Perhaps! The "what's left over" are qualities in life encompassing many dimensions. They include a flair for learning, an enthusiasm about life and living, compassion, honesty, integrity, a willingness to improve, a sense of fairness, a sense of humor, being responsible, tactful, mastering the functional skills to meet the demands of everyday living, etc. The list is incomplete, to be sure, but it identifies those aspects of education which endure throughout a lifetime.

You must evaluate your own experience. If these things are part of your life, and school has served to build, reinforce and structure them, then "what's left over" is working for you right now. If, on the other hand, some of these things are needed, then you must decide what to do about strengthening the qualities either individually or collectively.

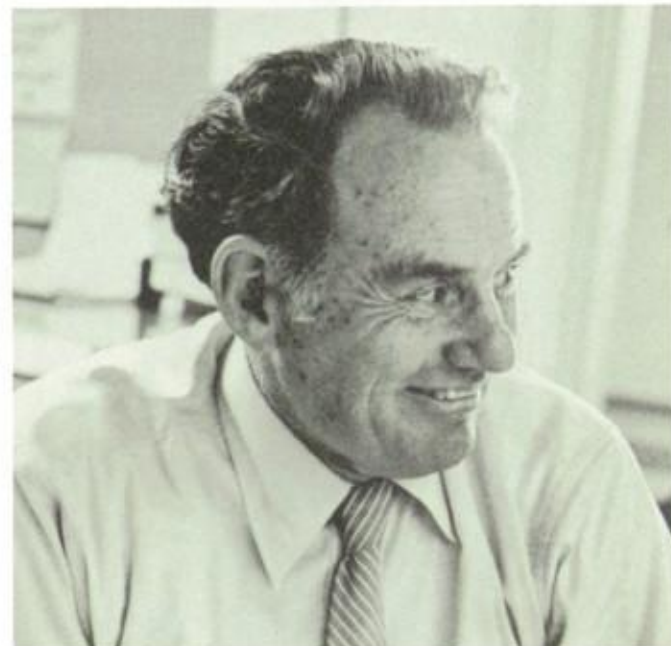

I challenge you to strive for the best in life. I trust that you will enjoy the years ahead as they will be filled with opportunities to learn. And remember, as you learn, choose well. Your choices are brief, but endless!

Sincerely yours,
David H. Spahr, Principal

Don't be what you ain't,

For if you is not what you am,
Then you am not what you is.

If you think you are beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not, you don't,
If you'd like to win but think you can't,
it's almost a cinch you won't.
Life's battles don't always go to the stronger or faster man.
But soon or late the man who wins is the one who thinks he can.

If in the future, after you have become a wise citizen of the world, you are going to find fault with my teaching, please remember to support what you say with evidence from my lecture notes. Of course, in order to do this, you will have to take notes and save them through the yellowing of time.

Discipline learned through any skill, be it sports, music, drama, language — anything that causes thought and growth — will free a person to become whatever he wants. That is my greatest excitement in life — knowing I can become anything and do anything without feeling I'm stuck in a small, boring world.

Ah, love, let us be true to one another!
for the world, which seems to life before us like a land of dreams, so various,

nor peace, nor help for pain; and we are here as on a darkling plain Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight
Where ignorant armies clash by night.

To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better, whether by redeemed social condition; to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived; This is to have succeeded.

WEST . . .

It's not all work . . .

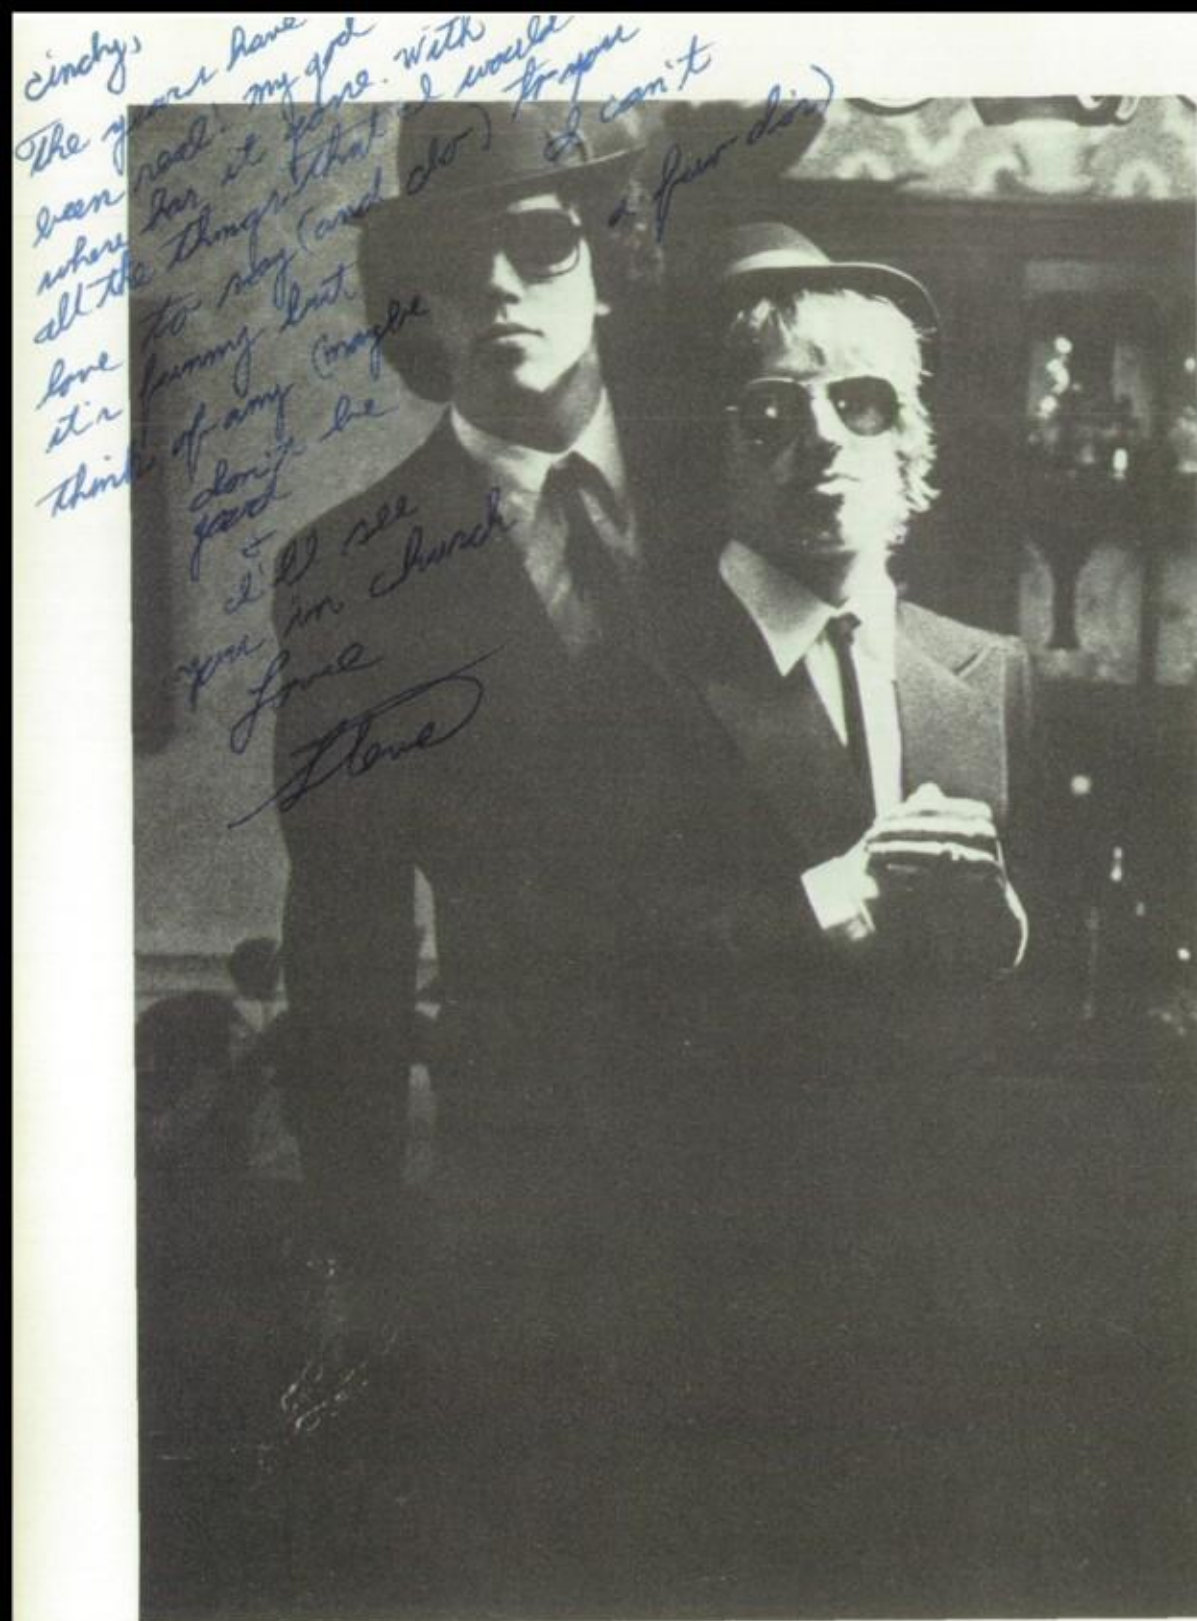

Neither is it all play.

We are sometimes confused . . .

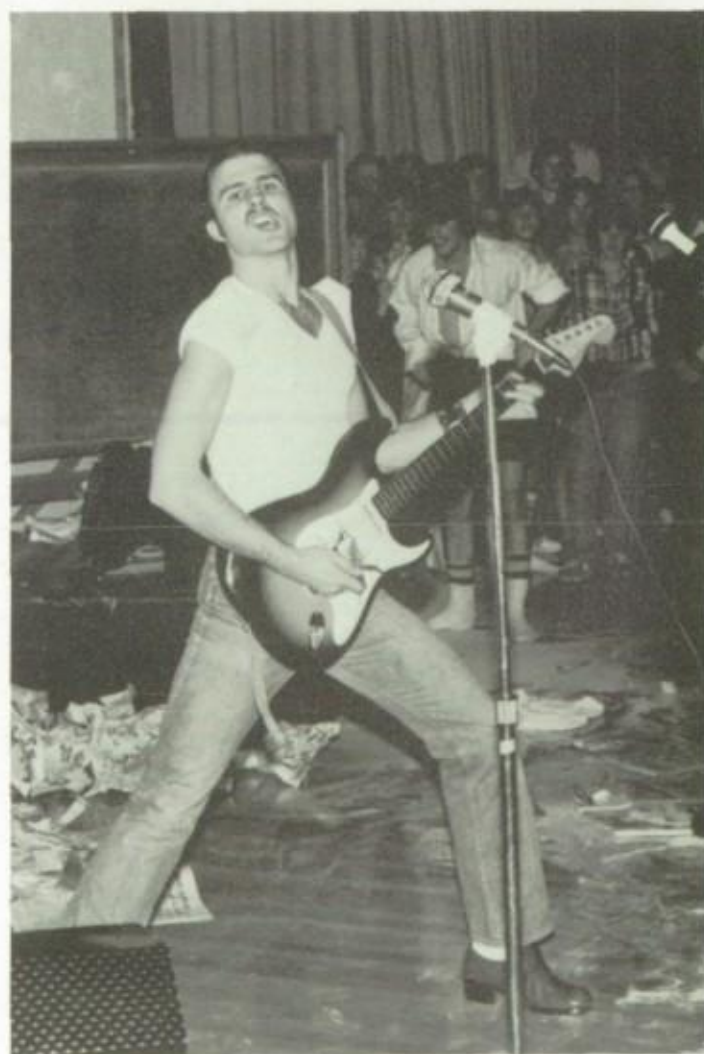

And sometimes amused.

We've got the Blues Brothers...

And the Unknown Comic,

And tomorrow's stars.

Today's leaders...

Mr. Michael Gosman, Senior Class Advisor

We're picking . . .

And grinning,

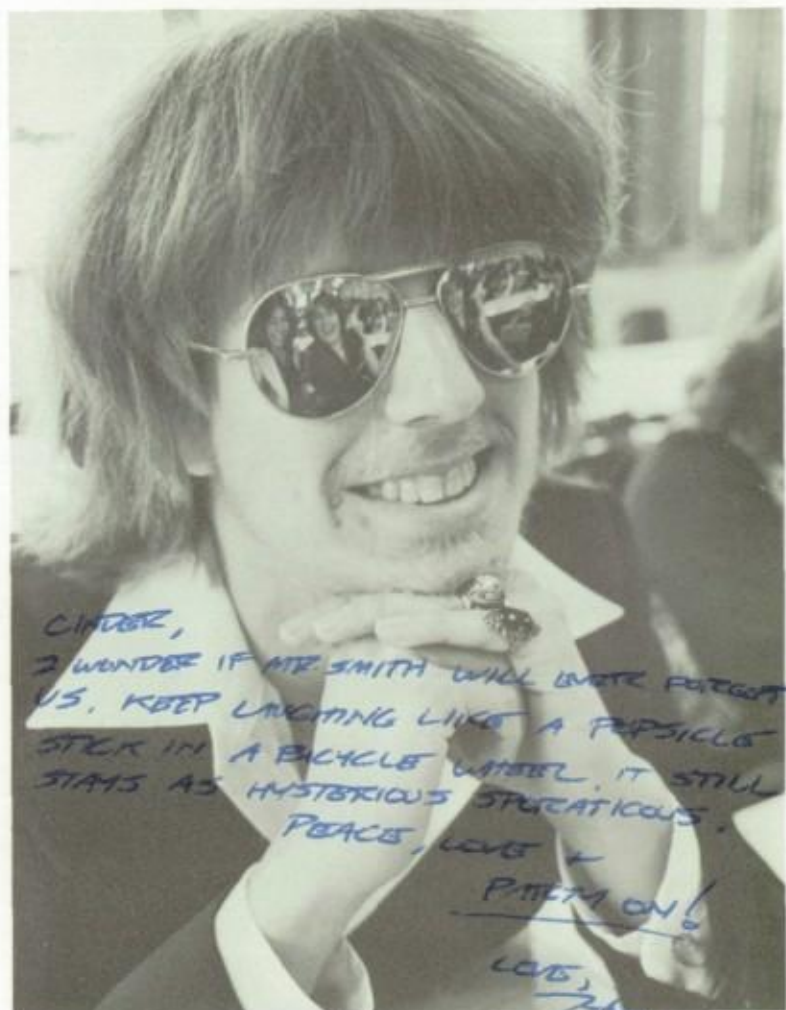

Growing up . . .

And getting down.

We can be part of the crowd...

Yet also be an individual.

We've braved the cold...

And high waters.

We shout, "Long live the Queen!..."

And "Hail to the Chief!"

We've got tiny Gremlins...

And tiny goblins.

WEST...

It's watching...

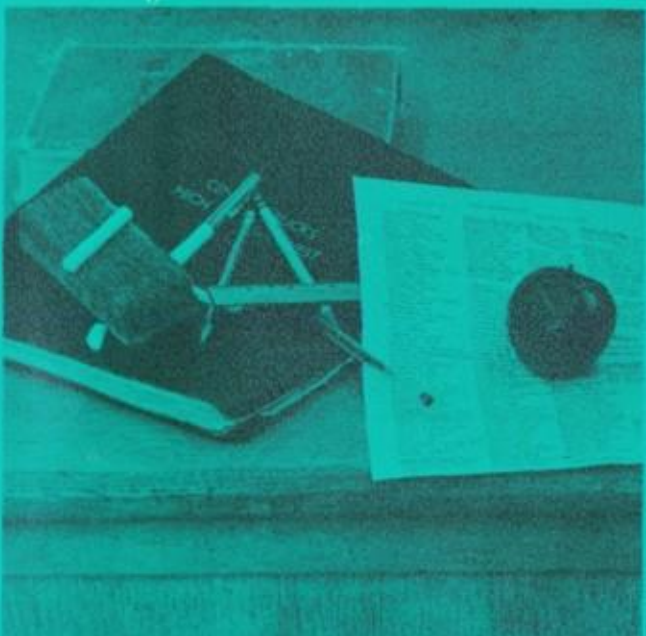

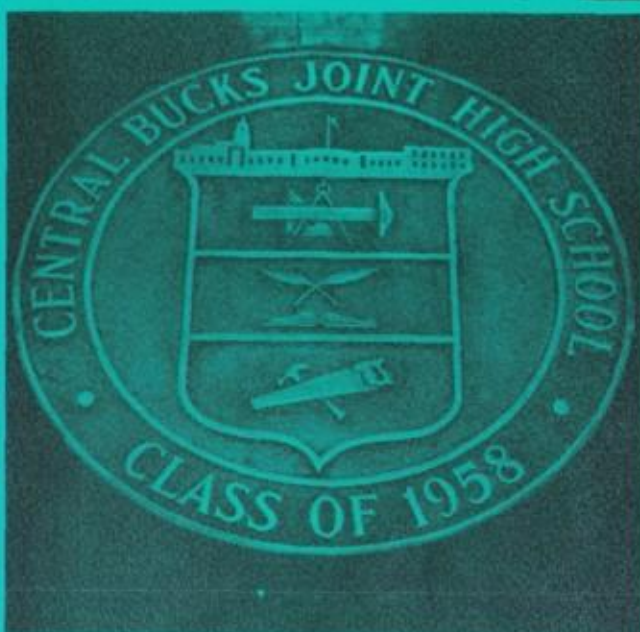

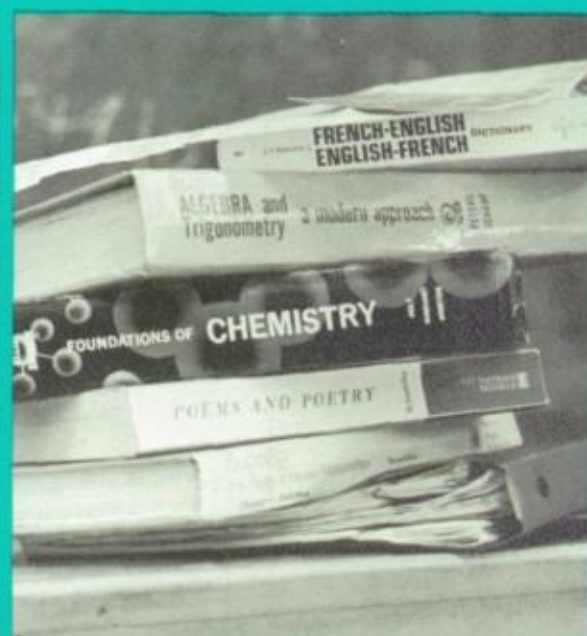

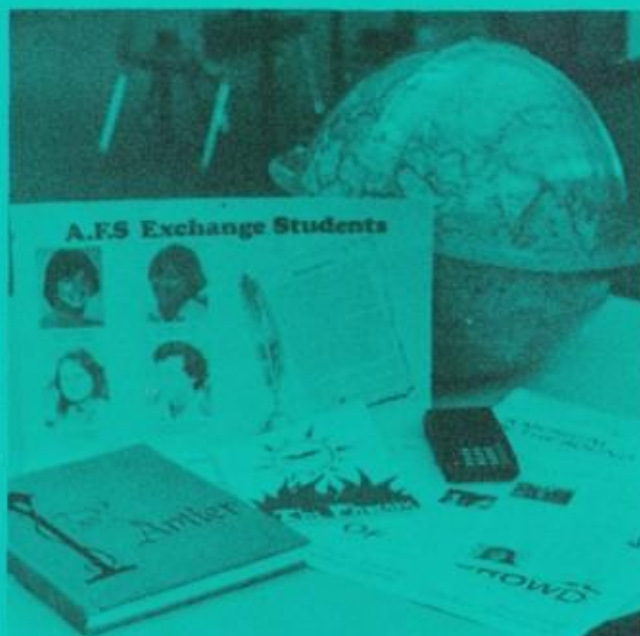

And waiting,

Coming to the crossroads...

And standing on the edge of new horizons.
